- This teacher has treated my friend with some of the most blatant disrespect I have ever seen coming from a teacher, much less a college professor. After learning about this my friend and I chose not to come to optional class periods until the required day of the final because we had other things that required our attendance and figured since attendance in this class is optional we could not show up. But since the Corona Pandemic that has gladly changed. This seemed to have started the last class we had with him. My friends mother had apparently made plans for seeing a family member in the military without his knowledge. My friend had talked with him about not being at class until the final which was how long she had planned to be away. He came back for the final and all seemed fine. Until class had ended and the next semester had started, I did not have classes in the same building as the class we had with this teacher, but my friend did. Every time they would run into each other my friend seemed to describe the teacher looking at him with a death stare. Then when this class started the first week, already running into problems with the teachers cooperation and respect. Not laying out instructions in a clear manner, not seeming to reply to questions, almost avoiding questions. When I ask him questions he seems to think that everyone in his class shows up and is hard to get any kind of sympathy out of when I don't show up for class even though it is optional, so when there is a problem with homework the most typical response I get from him is. "We did this in class" and it takes a long chain of emails for him to answer questions. Ignorance for problems that pop up or problems with homework that my friend cannot get answered but I can easily. I have a few examples of this. But my friend got so fed up with the teachers crap he ended up dropping the class, which I can't blame him for. If someone bothers to read this all the way through I will be happy to let my friend talk about this, if he is comfortable with it.

- Him commenting on my assignments every time that I did a good job is pointless, if I see a speech bubble next to a assignment I assume he has something to tell me something important, and if my assignment doesn't have everything in it he will state the obvious and not give me any hints on how I can fix it.

5. Overall

5.2) Additional comments concerning this course.

- The course is ok, I have my own issues with Cisco Networking classes for a whole other reason. The reason I put poor is simply because of the teacher he is awful.
