

Jeremy Scott

Jeremy Scott at MET Gala with Katie Perry 2015, Josh Haner/The New York Times

Born 1975 Kansas City, Missouri
Lives in Los Angeles, California

Attended Pratt Institute, NY graduated 1996, moved to Paris following and launched his first lines.

Creative director of Italian couture brand Moschino (2013-2023)

Designed sneakers for adidas (2008-present)

At the MET Gala, a selection of Scott designs that were prominently featured, years and worn by:

- 2015 Katy Perry and Madonna
- 2016 Nicki Minaj and Demi Lovato
- 2017 Madonna
- 2018 Cardi B
- 2019 Katy Perry (chandelier dress) and Kacey Musgraves
- 2022 Megan Thee Stallion and Vanessa Hudgens

A 2015 documentary about him, Jeremy Scott: The People's Designer, was directed by Vlad Yudin. He was featured as a judge on the television show Making the Cut with Heidi Klum and Tim Gunn seasons 2 and 3.

Scott designed Katy Perry's outfits for the 2015 Super Bowl Half Time show, Rihanna's outfit in the "We Found Love" music video, Britney Spears's stewardess dress in the "Toxic" music video, Lady Gaga's outfit for the "Paparazzi" music video.

Catwalking/Antonio de Moraes Barros Filho/Getty Images

Karwai Tang/WireImage

Katherine Bernhardt

Born 1975 St. Louis, Missouri, lives and works in St. Louis.

Received a BFA from the School of the Art Institute of Chicago in 1998 and MFA from the School of Visual Arts, New York, in 2000.

Her work has been featured in prominent solo and group exhibitions nationally and internationally, and is in public and museum collections worldwide, including Fondazione Sandretto Re Rebaudengo, Turin, Italy; High Museum of Art, Atlanta; Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden, Washington, DC; and the San Antonio Museum of Art, Texas, among others.

Bernhardt's home has been featured in T Magazine, the New York Times magazine.

She is represented by David Zwirner gallery.

Pop culture symbols and products are recurring themes in her work.

Katherine Bernhardt, photo Dina Litovsky

